

Can I drive a truck with a car licence?

- The DVLA rules vary, depending upon when you passed your driving test.
- Drivers who passed their test before the 1st January 1997 normally have entitlement to drive vehicles between 3.5 tonnes and 7.5 tonnes GVW.
- Drivers who passed their test after the 1st January 1997 will only have entitlement to drive a vehicle up to 3.5 tonnes GVW, which typically will be a standard Mercedes Sprinter.
- If you have questions relating to your personal entitlement you can contact the DVLA by email to drivers.dvla@gtnet.gov.uk or look at their web site, www.dvla.gov.uk.